Orland Board Asks Wabash Railroad For Better Viaduct

A meeting was held Thursday morning between the engineers of the Wabash railroad and representatives of Orland Park in the Wabash depot in Orland for the purpose of working out a solution to the under pass problem on Oak St. The railroad men admitted that the old wooden structure was obsolete and very hazardous to traffic, but that a travel count made several weeks ago showed that this viaduct was unwarranted and suggested the closing of the bridge and of Oak street with the exception of a small pedestrian under pass. They were told that the people of Orland Park would not permit such action and that an underpass was more necessary for the village now than ever before.

The village officials, however, contended that a modern structure be located so that Oak street could be made a central thoroughfare.

The railroad officials agreed to have a survey made and a set of plans prepared and to submit them to the village of Orland Park for approval before doing any work on the old structure.

Those representing the Wabash railroad were Mr. Krueger and Mr. Potter. The village of Orland Park was represented by Mayor Wm. Kollman, village Trustee Edgar Cooper and village engineer Roy Loebe.

Another meeting in regard to the matter will be held within the next two weeks.

The Double Tragedy

A FEW years ago a group of forty Chicago and Milwaukee newspaper men were guests of the Milwaukee railroad and Rocky Wolfe, now a widely known radio sport commentator, on a week-end outing in Manitowish, Wis.

Among the extraordinary sights of the resort town were live porcupines strolling about a nine-hole golf course played by the scribes and a mother hawk, whose broad back and spread wings were used by three baby hawks as a landing stage, high above ground.

A dormant appreciation of Nature having been awakened in the minds of the visiting city folks, they were treated by Wolfe to the prize story of the vicinity.

A Manitowish hunter, according to Rocky, reported that he had shot a fox which had a dead porcupine in its mouth. The fox was already dead when shot, for the spines of the porcupine had killed it.

It was learned later, Rocky averred, that the porcupine had been a pet which earned a living by carrying fruit on its back from its owner's orchard to the cider mill.

"And I am ashamed to report, gentlemen," Wolfe concluded, "that both animals were intoxicated when the double tragedy occurred."

The Colorado Cinder Beetle

WHEN the Santa Fe railroad was built into Colorado, its coming brought rejoicing to the residents of the rich Arkansas River valley. It meant an outlet for their crops and prosperity. But that lasted only a little while. Then disaster swept down upon them.

Every night a large section of the roadbed disappeared. Something was taking away the cinder ballast. Train schedules were disrupted and there were endless delays until the damage could be repaired. In several cases freight trains were wrecked or derailed.

Santa Fe officials were frantic, for no one could discover what was carrying away the ballast. Finally a newspaper man, Charley Blakesley of the Kansas City Star, suggested that possibly the Colorado cinder beetle was eating up the ballast and his surmise proved correct.

How to check the ravages of the insects was the next problem. That was solved when it was discovered that the cinders used for ballast were from soft coal. So hard coal cinders were substituted and the cinder beetles broke their jaws trying to eat them. For some time, it is said, passengers on the Santa Fe were kept awake at night by the cinder beetles screaming with the pain of their broken jaws. So the railroad speeded up the schedules of their passenger trains. They now went so fast that the passengers heard the moaning of the broken-jawed cinder beetles merged into a symphony of sound, like the rustle of wind through pine trees, that quickly lulled them to sleep.

When a harder race of cinder beetles developed with jaws capable of eating hard coal cinders, the Santa Fe was ready for them. They began using crushed rock and since that time have had no trouble with the little pests.

Massachusetts Melons

THE visitor from Georgia motoring through the Berkshires of Massachusetts looked rather scornfully at the crops in the fields along the road.

"Why, I don't see any melons up here," he said to the farmer leaning on the fence. "Can't you raise them?"

"No, we don't seem to have any luck with melons," replied the Yankee. "I tried to raise some a while back—tried it year after year, but I couldn't ever get a good crop somehow. The trouble was that the soil was just too rich for 'em."

"I'd plant my seeds, the vines would start growing, the blossoms would come out, and then they'd set and the melons would begin to form. Then the sun would get hotter and the nights would sprinkle our Berkshire dew on 'em. And that dew, I tell you, acts like magic, it makes things grow so. But I never could get any melons, though."

"Is that so?" exclaimed the Southerner. "Why couldn't you?"

"Well, I tell you," answered the son of the Berkshires. "Those vines just naturally grew so fast they dragged the melons all over the field. They just plumb wore 'em out before they had a chance to get ripe. So I just had to give up tryin' to raise melons."

"Marine Store Dealer"

When a sailing ship came into port in the old days a man used to go aboard and bid for the old sails that had been torn by tropical storms. He was also given odd lengths of rope and all the junk accumulated during a voyage of many months. "Marine store dealer" was the man's title, and he dealt with ships which sailed the Seven seas. Later there was little for the marine store dealer to do—the big shipping lines managed their own affairs. As his trade with ships went, the dealer started to buy rags, old bottles and the like from houses in seaport towns. Now he has become the unromantic rag-and-bone man—though still his official name is marine store dealer.—Pearson's Weekly.

Vancouver Hindus Cremate Their Dead Publicly

ALTHOUGH they are dressed in the manner and mode of the western hemisphere, the members of this Hindu colony on Vancouver island still cling to their old world customs. One of them is the public cremation of their dead. The body, covered with a sheet, is placed on a pile of cordwood, and when the last rites of the Hindu faith are performed, additional wood is placed over the body and the entire mass set afire. In this picture the last rites are being said over the body of Karmal, the wife of Kartar Singh.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

SAMMY JAY TAKES A HAND

SAMMY JAY was bubbling over with excitement as he flew through the Green Forest following Lightfoot the Deer. He was so excited he wanted to scream, but he didn't. He kept his tongue still. You see, he didn't want Lightfoot to know that he was being followed. Under that pointed cap of Sammy Jay's are quick wits. It didn't take him long to discover that the big stranger whom Lightfoot was seeking was doing his best to keep out of Lightfoot's way in which Lightfoot was searching for him. Lightfoot made so much noise that it was quite easy to know just where he was and so keep out of his way.

"That stranger is nearly as big as Lightfoot, but it is very plain that he doesn't want to fight," thought Sammy. "He must be a coward."

Now, the truth is, the stranger was not a coward. He was ready and willing to fight if he had to, but if he could avoid fighting he meant to. You see, big as he was, he wasn't quite as big as Lightfoot, and he knew it. He had seen Lightfoot's big footprints and from their size knew that Lightfoot must be bigger and heavier than he. Then, too, he knew that he really had no right to be there in the Green Forest. That was Lightfoot's home, and so he was an intruder. He knew that Lightfoot would feel this way about it and that this would make him fight all the harder.

So the big stranger wanted to avoid a fight if possible. But he wanted still more to find that beautiful young visitor with the dainty feet for whom Lightfoot had been looking. He wanted ed to find her, just as Lightfoot wanted to find her, and he hoped that if he should find her he could take her away with him back to the Great Mountain. If he had to he would fight for her, but until he had to he would keep out of the fight. So he dodged Lightfoot and at the same time looked for Miss Daintyfoot.

All this Sammy Jay guessed, and after a while he grew tired of following Lightfoot for nothing. "I'll have to take a hand in this thing myself," muttered Sammy. "At this rate Lightfoot never will find that big stranger!"

So Sammy stopped following Lightfoot and began to search through the Green Forest for the big stranger. It didn't take him very long to find him. He was over near the pond of Paddy the Beaver. As soon as he saw him Sammy began to scream at the top of his lungs. At once he heard the sound of snapping twigs at the top of the little ridge back of Paddy's pond, and knew that Lightfoot had heard and understood.

CARD AND TUMBLER

TWO objects are required for this trick: namely, a playing card and a small drinking glass. Holding the card between the thumb and fingers of his right hand, the magician sets the tumbler on the card with his left hand.

Then he moves his left hand away. Amazingly, the tumbler balances upon the upper edge of the card and remains there until the performer removes it. The card and the glass may be examined afterward.

During this trick, the spectators see only the front of the card. A glance behind scenes would reveal the secret. The magician keeps only three fingers at the side of the card. His forefinger is back of the card.

Pointing upward, hidden by the card, the forefinger serves as an additional resting spot for the glass. The card and the finger are really the supports.

Let Not Affection Fade

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

A SADDER sight the sad heart knows Than petals falling from a rose, Than dying grasses where a plain No longer feels the kiss of rain, Than shattered beauty when a tree Lies prostrate, never more to be: Such things are even sadder when They happen in the hearts of men.

For like a rose whose day is done, Its petals falling one by one, And like a plain whose withered grass Shall never green again, alas, And like a tree whose branches lie Along the ground, to droop and die, So is the careless fading of That thing of beauty known as love.

Let not that sadness come to you If there is anything to do:

A more forgiving tenderness To make you love the more, not less, Any eye for virtue, not for sin, Since mortals all have both within— Let every rose fall in the glade, But not your own affection fade.

Anyone Could Fly This Plane

THE airplane that is heralded as one that "even grandma can fly with ease and safety," is shown soaring through the sky at College Park airport, Washington, when it was put through tests for the benefit of the bureau of air commerce. The plane was designed and built by A. B. Green, and is a radical departure from usual airplane construction. It has a wing span of 36 feet, can fly 75 miles in an hour on 2½ gallons of gasoline, and weighs, empty, only 405 pounds. This ship will sell for about $700.

OUR LOWLY CENT
NOW TRAVELS WITH DIGNITY AND ECLAT

The humble and lowly cent, once scorned, derided and spurned, is now embraced and welcomed back into the American family purse. Never in the history of our present monetary system has the cent achieved such a volume of appreciation and circulation.

Through the channels of trade it goes on its little mission of mercy. Clever mechanical devices have been invented to snare it and hold it momentarily, at least, in captivity. But once released it continues its endless journey here, there and everywhere. Back in the boom days of prosperity it did not emerge into the marts of trade without a nickel or a dime for an escort. But today it travels alone, respected and acclaimed.

Through the labyrinth of bargain counters here and yonder, attractively priced merchandise flirts dally with the cent. It cuts quite a figure in the shopping district. It is esteemed by the wealthy as well as by the poor. No longer is its habitat confined to the Sunday school and foreign missionary collection box. Its domain has widened and lengthened. Its sphere of usefulness is unlimited. It chums with ease and grace with nickels, dimes, quarters, half-dollars and dollars. The cent has influence these days!—Indianapolis News.

WASHINGTON.—Some years ago when Reed Smoot of Utah was a member of the senate

Smoot's Prophecy where he enjoyed a long and meritorious service, he ventured a prophecy. It was this:

"The cost of government has increased every year, and it will continue to increase. I care not what party is in power, that result will obtain."

As I recall, Senator Smoot's statement was made about eight years ago and it was made at a time when the Republicans, of whom the Utah senator was one, were in control in the senate. His statement came as a result of an immense amount of jibes that were being hurled at the Republican majority. The Democrats were having a grand time, kidding the Republicans who were then in complete control of the government.

Senator Smoot recognized that when few in responsible positions in the government recognized, or if they did recognize the fact, they chose not to admit it. Nevertheless, the senator's statement is true today as it was true when he made it and for many years before.

The Smoot prophecy comes to mind now because of the sudden acceleration of moves to curtail government expenses, to reorganize the seats of New Deal and emergency agencies, to eliminate overlapping functions among these agencies, and, in general, to put the house of government in order.

Two such efforts are underway. One of them was initiated by Senator Harry F. Byrd, Virginia Democrat, who succeeded in obtaining senate recognition of his charges that there was tremendous waste, that there were useless agencies and that, in addition, governmental functions were being generally messed up because none except the old-established units of government knew what they were doing. The Virginia senator obtained adoption of a resolution providing for a general survey and recommendations for the clean-up. It was a situation in which even the most ardent New Dealers could not find an excuse for objecting to it. So the senator took the lead.

Subsequently, President Roosevelt reached the conclusion that something ought to be done in the way of untangling the tangled skein of governmental functions so he proposed a survey under his direction. He appointed a committee of so-called experts to go over the problem.

Thus, at the start, at least, it appears that the taxpayers are going to be favored by a break. I think it ought to be added, however, that no one has had the temerity to suggest that either the Byrd survey or that engineered by Mr. Roosevelt will yield very much.

The survey promoted by Senator Byrd will dig up a good many helpful facts but there is every reason to believe that the Virginia senator will find many obstacles placed in his way and that he and his committee will be unable to present any comprehensive statement on their findings to the country in advance of the November elections. The same is true concerning the survey directed by the President, only more so. The cold fact is that there is no chance at all for the President's committee to even approach the stage of making recommendations from their survey until long after the elections are held. Frankly, each of these surveys is permeated with politics, so much so that a straightforward accounting or general description of the affairs of government will not be allowed to become public property and thereby become a campaign issue. Of the two, Senator Byrd's proposal has the better chance, but that is rather small.

Adverting to the Smoot prophecy, it is therefore of no great importance whether a thoroughgoing examination of the governmental structure that has grown up in the last three years under President Roosevelt is made in advance of the elections. These New Deal agencies have been created and these New Deal agencies, like many of the "Old Deal" agencies, are with us to stay and suck up taxpayers' money for quite some time. I need only remind you that we still have in existence the War Finance corporation and the railroad administration that were created as war-time agencies, not to mention a dozen other similar units.

It is possible, indeed, I think it is probable, that there will be a trimming of pay rolls in many of the New Deal agencies immediately after election. There certainly ought to be important curtailment of expenses and of the list of employees, but accomplishing that is a matter much more easily described than done. So, I feel safe in saying that all of this ado about a reduction in governmental swelling amounts to nothing more than just ado.

In making the statement above that the outcry about reducing the government pay roll and untangling the functions is just so much ballyhoo, I think it ought to be said at the same time that New Deal spirits are rising. There was a time a few months ago when the national trend was decidedly against Mr. Roosevelt. It even went so far as to cause many individuals to say that Mr. Roosevelt would be defeated for re-election. The picture around the first of April was quite different. There is in Washington quite a general feeling that the Roosevelt re-election chances have improved and are continuing to improve. This condition is quite evident to observers continuously on the job here for even in the personal manner of the President himself there is an outward appearance that he believes the situation is well in hand.

As far as I can discover, one reason why the New Dealers feel so much better is that events leading up to the national Democratic convention seem to be cleared of any harassing possibilities.

I am sure that it will be recalled how something like the blues overcame many New Deal stalwarts after former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York, 1928 Democratic Presidential candidate, let loose a blast at the New Deal in his Liberty League dinner speech. I happened to be in a position to know that the Smith speech caused all kinds of commotion and fear among New Deal leaders. They know, as everyone else knows, that "Al" Smith has a big personal following. When he threatened "to take a walk," he let loose a declaration that was charged with dynamite and the New Dealers could not calculate how much dynamite.

Now, however, it appears quite certain that much of the danger inherent in the Smith declaration has been eliminated. Notwithstanding the Smith indictment of the President for repudiation of platform promises and his description of the Roosevelt policies as "a national menace," there is going to be a pitifully small number of anti-New Deal Democrats in the Philadelphia convention. The number will be so small, in fact, that however vociferous they become, their shouts will be heard no more than the wail of a child in a storm.

It was to be expected, as I have reported to you before, that the routine type of Democratic politician will forget any differences he has with the New Deal and be regular at convention time and during most of the campaign. That type of politician, be he Republican or Democratic, cannot afford to bolt. If he bolts, he cuts off his own nose and most politicians do not enjoy being de-nosed for that is tantamount to being politically dehorned. So, while the Philadelphia convention of the Democrats may have some seething underneath the surface, it is without the realm of possibility that there can be any important revolt against renomination of Mr. Roosevelt. Likewise, it is just as far-fetched to think that the platform which that convention will adopt for the campaign will not be exactly as Mr. Roosevelt dictates it. Actually, there is nothing on the horizon now to indicate any changes from the way I have just described it.

Inasmuch as the New Dealers can properly regard their situation pretty well in hand, they naturally can feel a bit cocky over the difficulties in the Republican ranks. First, the Republicans are at a disadvantage in that their convention in Cleveland is to be held at an earlier date than the Democrats meet. This, however, is more real than apparent. It is thus because of the intra-party battles that appear certain to come to the surface at Cleveland. The Republicans are not together, not unified, on anything. A half dozen candidates with appreciable followings are snapping at each other and two or three factions are announcing almost simultaneously what the platform is going to say. It just cannot help leading into a beautiful mess at Cleveland unless the Republican leaders show more intelligence than they have shown thus far.

In the meantime, the Democrats are making note of the various battle charges. You can be sure they will use them. Whoever the Republicans nominate at Cleveland necessarily faces a big fight but as the situation now stands, I think the Democrats will be able to make it an offensive campaign whereas ordinarily the party in power must give over much of its campaigning to a defense. This is true unless the Republicans can get together and take the offensive themselves by criticizing and attacking on a united front.

Of course, much water can run under the bridge before the November election. It is always possible that the party in power can make mistakes, can be led into a blind alley under the political guns of its opposition. The Democrats have made many mistakes already but the anti-New Deal opposition shows no indication of plans to take advantage of those mistakes. So the circumstances, as of this time, give every reason for the New Dealers to feel satisfied with the campaigning up to this time.

Two Use Cross as Emblem Greece and Switzerland have a cross as the chief emblem in their arms, the former silver, the latter white.

New Deal Spirits Rise just so much ballyhoo, I think it ought to be said at the same time that New Deal spirits are rising. There was a time a few months ago when the national trend was decidedly against Mr. Roosevelt. It even went so far as to cause many individuals to say that Mr. Roosevelt would be defeated for re-election. Uncommon Sense

Most people know whether they are doing right or wrong.

Webbly Wills Most people know also that it is far wiser in the end to do right than to do wrong.

But unless will power is cultivated—put to work, and kept at work to guide your actions—look out!

It will begin to slip, and after that you will have trouble with it—plenty of trouble.

Controlling the will does not mean suppressing it.

There are times when it ought to be the boss.

But again there are times when you will have to hold it in check, and keep it sternly in check if you don't want it to run away with you and get you into trouble.

I do not believe that any person is in constant need of self-discipline.

As a rule they can go along without fear that their emotions or their desires will kick up and insist on being given a hearing.

But as a rule if you begin early to keep your will in hand it will "stay put" and not lead you into temptation, or even sow in your soul the seeds of covetousness and selfishness.

If your will is wobbly, if you find it hard to decide between what you know is the right course and what you are pretty sure is the wrong course, sit down by yourself and think it out.

Think it out with your future in mind. What you have been, what you may be now are over the dam.

You can't do anything about them. But you can, if you cultivate self-control, acquire the capacity of sticking to a job and doing it right, and gradually become your own boss. Not until then will you be able to do what you want to do with your life.

As a reporter I have met and interviewed and associated with many successful men.

Some of them were talented. Some of them were just determined.

But they all had their wills under their control, and their actions were in turn guided by their wills.

We all have in our veins the various bloods of hundreds of unknown ancestors. We must be influenced more or less by these streams.

But somewhere between our ears is the executive officer of our being, the will.

Cultivate it. Keep it on the job. If it falters, bring it back into line.

To the city dweller, radio programs have already become an old story.

Along with automobiles and subways they are accepted as conveniences which assist in killing time.

It is in the desert places of the earth, and on the islands that lie so far off shore that they are not easily reached that they have become a blessing.

Not long ago an acquaintance took me in his motorboat to an island about 12 miles off the coast of Maine, an island chiefly used by summer visitors, but with a local population which remains all winter so hemmed about by gales that it is impossible to visit the mainland.

In such places as these, once practically desert islands the radio has become a beneficent miracle.

The islanders, once completely shut off from knowledge of what was going on in cities of the mainland are now almost as conversant with happenings ashore as are those living in the cities themselves.

Moreover, fishermen far out to sea receive daily reports of the movements of the schools of fish. Some of them have sending sets of their own by means of which their home ports can learn of their whereabouts, their catches, and of any other matters of interest.

I can remember of no modern development in my time which has been quite as dramatic, quite so seemingly impossible as this communication through the air with the sea and the shore.

Last evening I sat in the house of a neighbor and heard messages from the shore going out to distant fleets—news of catches by vessels just come into port—of illness at the homes of some of the fishermen—many other things which until a few years ago could never have reached the knowledge of the mariners until they returned from their cruises.

And the next night I attended a theater, and heard a crowd wildly applauding a magician who had just, apparently, taken a rabbit out of a silk hat which he had removed from his head.

What men, who think, will be able to do in days yet to come, is beyond human power to guess.

But in the one department of radio alone it has furnished a promise of wonders to come that is almost unbelievable.

Apparently we are just beginning to understand the power and range of this new means of communication.

But our children will look back to our times and say to each other:

"Those were the days when people thought the radio was a wonder."

A vacation helps to balance our powers, to give us a more symmetrical development. It keeps us from becoming one-sided. It improves our judgment.

Do you Approve Of Boss Rule?

The Bremen Township Regular Republican Organization is now composed of all Committeemen in Bremen Township excepting Charles Nielsen, who as it's President, three years ago, deserted it, to run on a Coalition ticket.

Isn't it likely he will again desert his fellow Republicans IF he is elected on their ticket.

Who is sponsoring him? The so-called Boss of Bremen Township? Not the Republicans of Bremen Township, otherwise he would have been endorsed by them.

Edward Reimer, having been chosen by the Republican Organization as their candidate, has pledged himself to be governed by Republican Principles and not by a "Boss".

By electing Edward Reimer committeeman of Bremen Township, you will have started the downfall of Bremen Township's "Boss Rule."

Howdy Pals:

I've got a lot of gossip to tell you. So here goes.

Who is the young man who plans to go to California? Why are you going, Ollie?

I hear some of the girls are two-timing their unsuspecting boy-friends. Watch out, boys.

What's this I hear about Irish, Mager, Simmie and Eddie? That's it! Blame it on the other guys.

I feel so sorry for you guys who have girl friends. Whenever you take them out they talk about nothing but their new spring suits. How lucky for me I haven't got a girl-friend.

The couple who were going to get married called it off at the last minute. Better luck next time kids.

Paul L. Hastings, Minister

Sunday April 12, marks the return of another Easter day. It comes in the spring-time of the year, as any day which symbolizes re-birth and resurrection should come. To some the day means new clothes and an opportunity to give them proper public display. To some it means a brief respite from toilsome routine in school or shop. To yet another group it offers opportunity for gay and festive social activity. Perhaps to a few it means release from Lenten disciplinary measures although most people who observe Lent in this manner do not consider it burdensome. In Christian circles, however, the return of Easter calls to mind the age-old question of our faith in immortality.

At the eleven o'clock service of this church next Sunday the minister will speak to the theme: "I Believe in Eternal Life." He will strive to set forth the faith at which he has arrived thus far in his experience.

It is in no sense a blind jump in the dark, nor is it a faith that is dependent upon a traditional theology.

In a word, he believes in eternal life because the facts of life compel him to that conclusion.

The service of worship, including just as possible TODAY as ever, and ESSENTIAL TO NATIONAL RECOVERY, but — it requires — equalization with other industries—indpendence and not dictation.

Wayland Brooks was born in a farming community — lived most of his life there. He owns and operates a farm — understands farm problems and HAS PROMISED TO ADOPT THE FARM PROGRAM OF FORMER GOVERNOR FRANK O. LOWDEN, admittedly the only feasible, practicable plan yet offered AMERICAN FARMERS.

It assures PROFITABLE FARMING but does not make farmers slaves of government.

MODERN MEAT

Means a Lot

DOWN in the "hot country" in old Mexico, where they have no ice, they drive a cow into the yard, kill it, cut off a piece, cook it and eat it—just like that. And anyone who has exercised his jaws on it will assure you that it's plenty tough.

But they're about four hundred years behind the times in those remote districts in old Mexico. Almost anywhere in this country with all our modern refrigerating devices, we can hang meat until it has reached exactly the right tenderness. But there still remains the problem of cooking it.

Another Step in Advance

Not always, however. We wonder sometimes whether the people here who always cook all the meat they eat aren't a few hundred years behind the times, too. We're not recommending that you eat it raw, but haven't you ever heard of canned meats?

If you haven't tried them, or have tried only one or two, you have a revelation before you. It means a lot to have good meat, and saves on fuel when all you have to do is heat it unless it happens to be a meat that you want to eat cold.

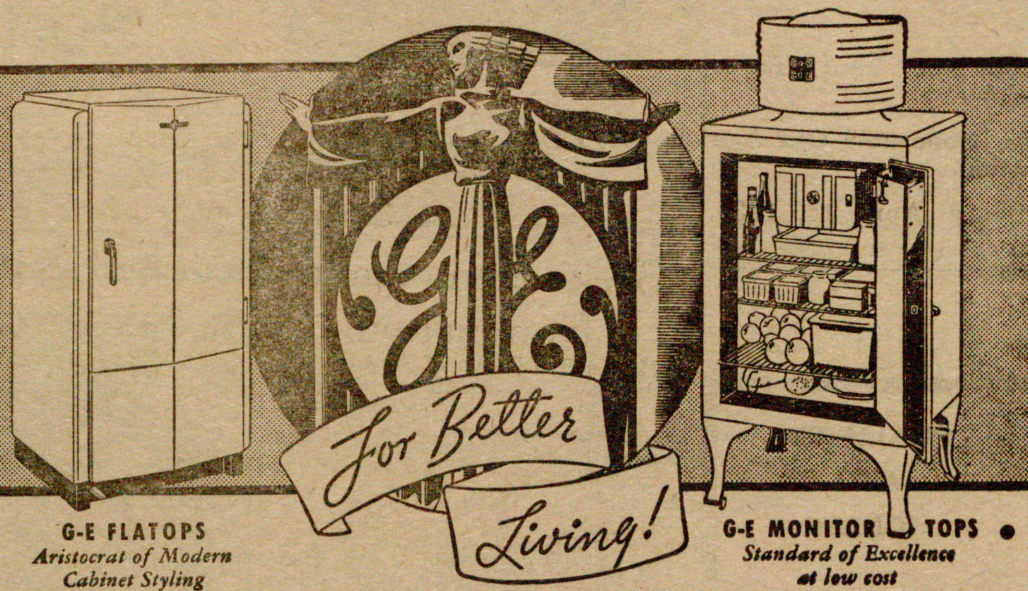

A Wide Choice

Canned meats offer you a wide choice. They include beef (corned, dried and roast), beef steak with onions, beef stew, chicken (boneless, deviled, in tamales and whole), frankfurters, ham (deviled, loaf, sliced and whole), hash, roast mutton, pig's feet, potted meats, sausage, tongue (calf's, lamb and ox), tripe, turkey, veal loaf and veal roast.

In addition to these there are entrées all ready to serve such as beef à la mode, chicken à la King, chicken curry, chop suey, Hungarian goulash, lobster Newburg, a rice dinner and Irish stew.*

NO MORE GUESS-WORK ON THIS FARM

This picture shows a scene taking place these days in many a farm home. The telephone is going back in! Many farmers are reordering the service which they reluctantly gave up in the past few years. Others are to have a telephone for the first time. But all of them will profit from the telephone's time, effort and money-saving services. A few cents saved by one call, a sizeable profit made because of another—and soon the telephone has more than paid for itself. And besides its dollars and cents value the farm telephone is a source of pleasure and protection to every member of the family. Order one today.

BERNICE VAN DER VRIES SHOULD BE RE-NOMINATED

Bernice T. Van der Vries, present member of the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Illinois is an outstanding candidate in the list of aspirants for the two nominations of the Republican Party in the Seventh Senatorial District.

It is only necessary for the voters who go to the Primaries on Tuesday April 14th to look upon the past record of Mrs. Van der Vries, in order to realize that in her, they have an energetic legislator in all legislation concerning education, taxes, municipalities, permanent registration and drivers licenses.

Although a resident of the northern end of the very large district which comprises the country towns in Cook County, she has travelled extensively to acquaint herself with the needs of the whole district and has been ever watchful of all legislation affecting these 95 towns. Mrs. Van der Vries is a strong advocate of "Home Rule."

Mrs. Van der Vries has had an especially helpful career in addition to her present term of office in the state legislature to make her a well informed student of public affairs. She was called upon in Winnetka, her home community, to serve the League of Women Voters in every capacity from block captain to president, as well as director on the State Board. She also served as a member of the Village Council of Winnetka for two terms, having a membership on practically every committee.

This wide experience coupled with her native endowment of initiative and brains, gives to the 7th Senatorial District an able representative with unusual aptitude for this important office. She warrants renomination through her alertness, activity and interest in her office, to which she is devoting the major part of her time and effort.

Conrad J. Wirth, Dem. Candidate For National Convention

Conrad J. Wirth was born May 11, 1901 in Springfield, Ill., and was educated in the public schools of that city. He was a graduate of the Springfield high school and later attended the Illinois Wesleyan college. From 1916 to 1918 Mr. Wirth was page boy in the House of Representatives for the late Democratic downstate leader, Lee O'Neil Brown. He came to Joliet in 1921 as an employee of the State Highway Department later served for three years in the city of Chicago as traffic engineer. He was married in 1926 to Velma Johnson of Lockport, Ill., has one daughter, Nancy Elizabeth. For eleven years he served as resident permit engineer for the State of Illinois in Will and DuPage counties. In 1933 Mr. Wirth was appointed supervising engineer on all state CWA projects in Will County where supervised over three thousand men. He was highly recommended from Washington for his honest and fair dealings with all whom he came in contact.

On April 10, 1934, Mr. Wirth was nominated on the Democratic Ticket for County Treasurer of Will County. He was not the organization's choice and defeated the organization's candidate by an overwhelming majority. Mr. Wirth is the only man in the history of the county to defeat an organization candidate. On November 6th he was elected County Treasurer of Will County and has made a remarkable showing in the short time he has been Treasurer. Before election he made the taxpayers numerous promises and to date has filled every promise made to the people. He has inaugurated a system of accounting in his office rated as the best in the state. He has installed a twelve month part-payment plan for the benefit of taxpayers hard hit by the depression. Mr. Wirth is keeping his office open during the noon hour for the accommodation of business men and farmers. A monthly financial statement is issued to the County Board at every meeting. Monthly disbursement is made to all taxing bodies of the county thus he protects the taxpayers money in case of bank failures. Wirth took office with a million dollars outstanding in delinquent taxes. He immediately set out to collect back taxes from the people who could pay it but did not. In 1935 he set a state wide record for collection of back taxes outside of Cook County. He collected $431,250.10 which was published in his annual report, the first ever to be published in Will County. Wirth collected over 83 per cent of the Will County tax levy for the revenue year of 1934.

On Sept. 9th, 1935, Mr. Wirth was honored and elected President of the State County Treasurers Association of Illinois. The latter part of February, Mr. Wirth was called to Springfield by Governor Horner and asked by the Governor to conduct and manage his campaign in Will County. At the present time Mr. Wirth is handling the Governor's campaign and is proud to be doing so as the Governor has made a wonderful Governor. He has been a Governor for all of the people and not one group of political faction.

At the coming election April 14th the taxpayers are to elect two delegates to go to Philadelphia in June to nominate the president of the United States. You people should select a man for this position as delegate to the Democratic National Convention who will go there with the interest of the people of his congressional district at heart. The people of the eleventh congressional district have without a doubt such a man in Conrad J. Wirth. From all indications Mr. Wirth is the outstanding candidate for the office of delegate, a non-salary job with no expense account. In sending a man of Mr. Wirth's type we know that his selection will be Franklin D. Roosevelt as he has been one of the greatest presidents the United States has ever had. Mr. Wirth's name is next to the last on the ballot for the office of delegate to the democratic national nominating convention and a cross in front of his name will mean a vote for the taxpayers of the 11th congressional district as well as a vote for Mr. Wirth.

Leam J. Kelly In Race For Recorder of Deeds

When Edwin L. Wilson, circuit judge of Will County was elevated to the bench, he was charged with the task of selecting a personal bailiff who possessed the qualifications for that responsible post.

Almost simultaneously with the judge's certification of election, he announced that Leahm J. Kelly, had been appointed as his personal bailiff.

It was a happy selection, as all who have had occasion to transact business in Judge Wilson's court will testify. Mr. Kelly, who now is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the office of recorder of deeds for Will County, has distinguished himself for the manner in which he has conducted the affairs of his office. He has been courteous and accommodating at all times, and the response of his friends to his announcement that he now was seeking their support at the Democratic primaries, indicates clearly that Mr. Kelly is well on his way to the finals in November.

Mr. Kelly is running on the Roosevelt-Lewis-Bundesesen ticket in Will County, his running mates being Francis J. Loughran, candidate for State's Attorney and State central committeeman, Wm. W. Mollan, candidate for county auditor, Stanley Zobel, candidate for Clerk of the Circuit Court.

Mr. Kelly has made many friends in rural Will County, when as a junior engineer he was employed in the county highway department during the construction of State Aid roads, under the terms of the bond issue of 1929. He was one of the famous Kelly trio, that in 1927 held down one whole side of the line on the J. T. H. S. football team. He is familiarly known to his friends as "Tub" and "Lee".

Prizes being awarded to Mrs. Edward Mangun, Amos Bruns, Mrs. Brown and Arthur Worth. A fine pot luck supper was served at midnight.

BUNDESEN FOR GOVERNOR

INSURE A ROOSEVELT VICTORY IN NOVEMBER

Nominate BUNDESEN FOR GOVERNOR

BUNDESEN MEANS REAL HELP FOR ROOSEVELT!

Study the cartoon and the news clipping alongside. The forces of greed and special privilege are afraid of Bundesen as a candidate because they're afraid of Roosevelt. They know Bundesen will help Roosevelt get the twenty-nine electoral votes of Illinois.

(An authentic clipping from an anti-Roosevelt newspaper)

GO DAILY NEWS, DECEMBER 6, 1935.

'Big Business' Pledged to Oppose Roosevelt

New York, Dec. 6.—(UP)—More than 1,500 of the wealthiest and most powerful men of the country left a four-day convention today pledged to use politics, propaganda and personal influence to defeat President Roosevelt in next year's elections.

The industrialists declared war without quarter on every deviation in government from "the American system" and asserted an intention to enlist their stockholders, employees and the general public.

The consensus of the industrialists carrying the anti-Roosevelt platform to their home communities today was expressed by S. Wells Utley, president of the Detroit Steel Castings Company and last major speaker of the convention.

"Industry must mobilize all its forces for action through one of the political parties," he said, then added that the Republican party must be kept from becoming "liberal, meaning radical," so industry may have a refuge.

Here's Proof that the anti-Roosevelt forces will use every means to destroy Roosevelt—even try to bore from within the Democratic ranks! Stop them April 14 by supporting the regular Democratic candidates

Time Lost is Money Lost

It costs money to be sick. You see it directly if your pay envelope is short. You lose out on some important work if you live on a farm or if you are one of the few who are not docked for lost time. You can't afford to show up on the job unless you are feeling fit. The boss wants results—not excuses.

How many times do Gas on Stomach, Headache, Sour Stomach, "That Tired Feeling," "That Morning After" Feeling, Neuralgia, Rheumatic, Sciatic, Muscular or Periodic Pains keep you at home or interfere with your doing a full day's work?

All these troubles are caused or made worse by too much acid in your body. To correct this condition take

ALKA-SELTZER

The New Pain Relieving, Alkalizing, Effervescent Tablet.

It is called Alka-Seltzer because it makes a sparkling alkaline drink, and as it contains an analgesic (Acetyl-Salicylate) it first relieves the pain of everyday ailments and then by restoring the alkaline balance corrects the cause when due to excess acid. Alka-Seltzer is pleasant to take, effective, non-laxative.

Why don't you try it? Get a drink at your drug store soda fountain for a nickel. Buy a package for home use.

Your elected Democratic State Central Committeemen recommend Bundesen!

All of the responsible and recognized leaders of the Democratic party of Illinois—the men who are on the firing line in behalf of Roosevelt and complete Democratic success in November—joined in recommending Bundesen for Governor.

These men have nothing against the present Governor as an individual. If they had thought he could win in November—and help Roosevelt win—they would have given him their endorsement.

But they had to face facts. They could not sacrifice the good of the party in order to spare one individual's feelings. Urged by county chairmen, county officials, judges, state senators and representatives, these elected Committeemen—25 of them from the State's 25 congressional districts—determined that Herman N. Bundesen was the best qualified man in the party to make a winning fight for the governorship.

Bundesen polled an all-time record of 1,087,000 votes in a county election!

See to it that your vote is cast for the good of the State and the Nation on primary day. Don't be influenced by maudlin sentiment or baseless sectional prejudice.

Herman N. Bundesen, a master executive and proved vote-getter, can help keep Illinois in the Democratic column.

The people know him as a man of action—Rooseveltian—an executive who gets things done!

Democrats! Think of November! Bundesen is the man the party can win with in Illinois. His whole career is distinguished by successful service in the interest of his fellow citizens. He understands human problems.

Bundesen has nothing to live down—nothing to apologize for or that needs explanation. He is making an American campaign that appeals to Americans.

A vote for him is a vote for Roosevelt and for a united, progressive, prosperous Illinois. Don't let the anti-Roosevelt schemers sway you from nominating Bundesen.

BUNDESEN ADVOCATES FOR ILLINOIS:

A farm to market road system throughout the State * A lower sales tax without return to a State property tax * Betterment and extension of the State's public school system * Better and more humane management of State institutions * Conservation of public health and a lower death rate for Illinois * Intelligent cooperation with President Roosevelt's programs.

THE PEOPLE KNOW

Despite the unprincipled destruction charges that have been hurled against veteran organizations by anti-veteran groups, public confidence in the good that is accomplished by veteran fraternities survives unshaken. This is particularly true in those communities where hundreds of V. F. W. Posts are constantly conducting numerous worth-while activities that contribute to civic betterment.

Those who have been condemning veteran organizations as "dangerous organized minorities" have overlooked the fact that the people of this country enjoy daily personal contact with the individual units of the V. F. W. and other veteran organizations, in their respective communities. The people at large know that the support of veteran welfare legislation is only one phase of a program that displays even more enthusiasm in a variety of constructive and unselfish community activities.

Organized veterans will always constitute a force for good because they represent men and women who have given tangible evidence of their loyalty and patriotism. No town or city that boasts of an active veteran organization will ever become the hotbed of Communism or other fantastic theories that are false to American ideals. Every organized group of ex-service men is another

Two Outstanding Legislators In Race For Legislature

Two of the outstanding legislators of the 41st senatorial district who are aspirants for re-election are Lottie Holman O'Neil and Warren Wood. Both have made excellent records at Springfield and the Illinois Legislative League endorses both of them in glowing terms. Mrs. O'Neil has dared to do things that many legislators of the male variety have not dared to do because of strings tied to them. Mrs. O'Neil is not bound by any political strings and has the courage of her convictions to stand for issues and principles which she feels are for the best interests of her constituents.

Mr. Wood, altho a first term has established a splendid record and has a chance of doing much good for the people of his district if returned to office. He has voted for and against certain measures which has met with the hearty approval of a large percentage of the people in his district.

Remember both of these able public servants when you vote at the primaries Tuesday, April 14th.

ORLAND PARK

Last Friday evening the members of the Orland Park M. E. church Sunday School Teachers and the Choir sponsored a miscellaneous shower in the church in honor of one of their members, Mrs. Dorothy Cooper Miller. Among the gifts was a breakfast set, a gift from the choir and a silk quilt, a gift from the Sunday School. About thirty-five guests were present.

The annual town meeting was held in the Orland Park village hall Tuesday afternoon. After a moderator was chosen, the reports of the town officers were read. These reports will be printed in full in this paper next week.

Royal Glahn will sing the tenor solo in an oratorio in the Trinity Evangelical church at 5400 Morgan street in Chicago Friday night. Herman Burkhardt will sing the bass solo.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Yunker attended the celebration of the 82nd birthday anniversary of the former's mother, Mrs. Christ Yunker, in Mokena Tuesday night.

The regular monthly meeting of the Adult Bible Class of the M. E. church, will be held in Creer hall next Wednesday night.

in with an immense street parade at 11 a. m. Upwards of 500 horses, 3 score of elaborately carved and gilded allegorical floats and tableau wagons together with many cages and open dawns of Clyde Beatty's animals will be seen in the procession. There will be five herds of elephants and two caravans of camels from the great desert. Five bands and two steam calliopes will furnish music. Doors to the menagerie open at 1 and 7 p. m. The big show will start at 2 and 8 p. m.

Third District Interested In Hayes Robertson

Hayes Robertson, Republican candidate for representative in Congress from this district, believes that aspirants for public office should appear before the citizens with their credentials and qualifications in the same manner as any person seeking a position in a private enterprise.

In a recent speech to a Third District group, Mr. Robertson stated that he was appealing to the voters to nominate him for their representative in Washington on the basis of his fitness for the office. He reminded them that, "citizens elect men to take charge of governmental affairs because they, the citizens, are too pre-occupied with private business to manage the affairs themselves. Therefore, they should choose men for public offices who are competent and who have the qualifications which are expected of men in responsible private positions."

He pointed out his qualifications which include several years of service in Washington D. C., in the department of Commerce, under the civil service commission. He added that elected, he would take an active part in all Congressional matters and would work for the Third District with the same earnestness which they would expect from him in any private employment.

Hayes Robertson is married, the father of one child, and resides at 9223 South Ada street, in Chicago. He is associated with a manufacturing company in Chicago Heights as vice president and attorney.

Devour Nest Companions

Many young birds of prey, such as the eagles and buzzards, will often kill and destroy their nest companions. A big baby buzzard will pounce upon its smaller brother, quickly kill it, and afterwards make a meal of it, and later, when the parent returns with a plump young rabbit, she will seem surprised that her one remaining baby has no appetite.

The pupils and teacher from the Gatter school went to the Kovar home Tuesday after school, to help Frank Kovar celebrate his fourteenth birthday. "STATE SOVEREIGNTY—NATIONAL UNION!" — Illinois' state motto has been adopted by Wayne Brooks (above), Republican candidate for Governor, as his campaign slogan.

Mokena residents have evinced more than usual interest this year in the race for governor. Particularly has discussion centered around Wayne Brooks, energetic young Republican leader whose downstate campaign attracted huge and enthusiastic crowds.

Clamor for leadership without obligations to the past has made Brooks the focus of interest throughout the state where he is recognized as one of America's outstanding orators. During the Democratic landslide of 1932-34 his heavy downstate vote caught the eye of both state and national leaders.

Brooks has repeatedly declared himself unequivocally for adoption of the farm program outlined by former Governor Frank O. Lowden. This program, coming as it does from one who has the confidence of agriculturalists everywhere, is arousing more and more popular favor each day.

The delegation of Mokena and Frankfort residents which attended the Brooks mass-meeting in Joliet a week ago has been discussing his address throughout the community where it has aroused favorable comment on all sides. The final few days of the campaign have been bringing about heated discussion but Brooks has refused to criticize or attack any of his opponents, insisting that party harmony calls for a clean campaign based on issues rather than personalities.
